SunModo Response to COVID-19

SunModo is working hard to adapt to the rapidly changing conditions we are all facing as a result of the ongoing situation with the Coronavirus. Aside from the safety and well-being of our team members, customers, and communities, our top priority is to continue supporting the needs of the Solar community.

In order to minimize transmission of the virus, we have shifted to all office staff not directly involved with our warehouses to work remotely. Beginning March 16th, our full warehouse staff will continue to work as usual and will be supported at all times by Logistics personnel. We have multiple contingency plans in place to continue shipping if any warehouse personnel get sick. We have spoken with all of our primary freight carriers, and they have assured us that they will continue with normal operations. While we are working remote, all of our Sales and Engineering personnel will continue to work full time, and remain available to support the needs of customers as usual.

We are planning to maintain this working arrangement until April 1 at a minimum, and we will reevaluate at that time.

We have put in place a carefully thought out plan including multiple contingencies to ensure that we are able to operate at full capacity in all regards while participating in the government-recommended social distancing. We intend to do all we can to make sure that our Solar community emerges from this situation as strong as ever. If you have any questions or if there is anything we can do to support you during this time, please contact your SunModo representative or our main office at 360-844-0048.
